

KLAN FIGHTS AS GILLIOM BRINGS MORE CHARGES

Attorney Goes to See the Imperial Wizard.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 21. — [Special.]—The battle front on which Attorney General Arthur Gilliom is waging his legal fight to have the Klan outlawed from Indiana, was widened today as Gilliom announced he will seek depositions from at least a dozen former Klan leaders, as Charles J. Orin, former Democratic county judge here and now chief counsel for the Klan, estranged from Washington to transfer with Imperial Wizard Hiram Evans and other national officers.

Orin declared he would seek no depositions in defense prior to arguments March 5, in County court on the Klan's demurrer against the Gilliom suit, which would revoke the Klan's charter issued when Ed Jackson, now governor, was secretary of state, and which would declare the Indiana Klan bankrupt. The Klan also has a motion pending to quash the Gilliom complaint.

Calls Charges False.

It is known, however, that Orin and his chiefs regard the Indiana fight as crucial in the Klan's history. Joseph Hoffington, Imperial Klan representative in Indiana, today issued a statement here, branding as utterly false and a complete fabrication the depositions obtained Monday by Gilliom from Hugh (Pat) Emmons, former Klan deputy at South Bend, regarding details of the Klan administration.

Further points in Emmons' testimony were made public today, including more revelations of conferences with Imperial Wizard Evans and his plans for political control of the nation.

How Speakers Were Taught.

Klan lecturers had various theories as to how they should be taught. If they were speaking in a territory with a substantial Catholic population they "went easy" on Catholics in public meetings, he said, but "gave them hell" in secret conclaves.

Although preaching good citizenship from the Klan rostrum Emmons said the Klan evaded paying taxes on real estate held by it by the formation of "Christian benevolent associations" in the membership for the express purpose of evading payment of taxes on the property.

He testified that, so far as he knew, the Klan never spent any money for charitable or benevolent purposes. He told how Klan officers made pin money by retailing Klan robes at $5.50 to $7, although they cost only $1.15.

The Inner Order.

Emmons said eligibility for membership in the Klan originally was limited to white, Protestant, native born Americans. Another organization was formed within the Klan ranks, he said, known as "The Crusaders," and composed of white Protestant foreign persons.

Emmons said he got a constitution for this organization from a preacher by the name of Donald C. Ford of Michigan City, in the Indiana steel belt, where there is a considerable foreign born population.

"Is that the preacher that holds conferences with the state?" Gilliom asked.

"Yes."

A Political Machine.

Dragon W. Lee Smith told him, Emmons said, after Emmons had observed.

7 INJURED AS BUS CRASHES INTO BUILDING

Seven persons were injured last evening when a westbound motorbus skidded in making a turn at Congress and LaSalle streets and plunged across a sidewalk to crash into the side of a flat building. The front of the bus was wrecked and the passengers were hurled from their seats.

The most seriously injured was Miss Pauline Strausman, 23, of 1537 South Central Park avenue, who suffered a broken right arm. Others on the injured list, all of whom were taken to the county hospital, were: Miss Rose Goldstein, 1428 South Central Park avenue; Miss Yetta Brilliant, 3619 Douglas boulevard; Mack Terrell, 1618 South Sawyer avenue; Morris Glibler, 1515 South Hamlin avenue; Anthony Serritella, 1442 Elburn avenue; and Bud Pickett, 1517 South Millard avenue. They were only bruised and slightly cut. The driver, Charles Lewis, 4151 Wilcox street, was not injured.

No deaths due to automobile accidents were reported in Cook county, the toll since Jan. 1 remaining at 126.

George W. Pattullo and his wife, formerly of Evanston, were killed when a train struck their automobile near Pasadena, Cal., where they had lived for several years. They were the parents of Mrs. William C. Lister, wife of Evanston's corporation counsel.

At the 1925 love feast here Emmons said Silton Spurgeon, mayor of Kokomo, Ind., made a speech and declared that every municipal appointment made by him at Kokomo was handed to a klanman.

F. Harold Van Orman, Indiana lieutenant governor; the Rev. E. S. Shumaker, superintendent of the Indiana Anti-Slavery league; and Arthur Robinson, junior United States senator from Indiana, today all denied membership in the Klan as Emmons had represented.

LINDY COMPLETES MAIL TRIP WITH A RECORD LOAD

Gets Back in St. Louis Ahead of Schedule.

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 21. — [Special.]—A laudable remark that he was "through and it's all over now" ended Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's return to his old St. Louis-Chicago air mail route here today. Lindbergh, landing at 9 o'clock this morning, brought with him 369 pounds and 3 ounces of mail. A record breaking consignment of 4,390 pounds of mail was carried on the flight.

Will Take a Rest.

He refused to pose for photographers as he stepped from his mail plane and his remark was taken as an indication that he would attempt to get a rest in private life. He had expressed his desire last week to retire temporarily from his flying activities, although he said he intended to fly to Albany, N. Y., next week to attend a conference on Feb. 23, when a state aeronautical legal code will be discussed.

Lindbergh took off from the flying field at Chicago at 6:12 o'clock this morning. Arriving at Peoria at 7:55 o'clock, he took off five minutes later for Springfield, arriving at 8:35 a. m. In keeping with postal regulations he paused again only for five minutes and left for St. Louis.

Small Crowd Greeted Him.

A small crowd awaited him at Lambert-St. Louis field, and Lindbergh made his way through to a small office building on the field, where he received his friends.

Another Ryan brougham monoplane has arrived here for Lindbergh's use. It was built by the E. F. Mahoney Aircraft company of San Diego, Cal., the makers of the Spirit of St. Louis. Another plane built especially for Lindbergh is nearing completion in the plant.

TAKES POISON BY MISTAKE.

Mrs. Dorothy Robertson, 21, of 2607 Washington boulevard, swallowed poison in her home yesterday thinking she was taking tablets for a cold. She was taken to the county hospital, where it was said she would recover.

DRAGON, IN FEAR, ASKS TRANSFER TO REFORMATORY

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 21. — [Special.]—Alleging he is in fear of physical violence at the hands of prison attaches, when he terms "servants of the chief executive," because he testified for the state against Gov. Ed Jackson in Jackson's trial in the Criminal court, D. C. Stephenson, former grand dragon of the Klan, today petitioned the governor for removal from the Indiana state prison at Michigan City to the Indiana reformatory.

The petition was filed in the name of Lloyd O. Hill and Paul Newman, Stephenson's attorneys.

The petition asserts that Stephenson was faced with a "duty which he owed the people of Indiana in taking the witness stand and then face the consequences when he was returned to prison, or he could refuse to testify because of fear of the consequences," and that he chose to do his duty and now face the consequences.

COURT PERMITS JURY TO PASS ON GUILT OF GUARDS

Denies Government Move to Order Acquittal.

BY ARTHUR M. EVANS.

[Chicago Tribune Staff Service.]
Miami, Fla., Feb. 21.—(Special.)—On a harbor chart spread on the floor in front of the jury box, seafaring men moved to boats and yacht models today, reconstructing the chase in which D. W. (Red) Shannon was killed two years ago by United States coast guardsmen, five of whom are being tried on charges of murder.

Two yacht captains who were in the Flamingo Hotel yacht basin a few hundred feet away from the shooting, testified they saw nothing to reveal the identity of the coast guard boat—no flag, no lights, no uniforms, no insignia. One of Shannon's crew said Shannon believed he was being chased by high-jackers, and that the pursued found their mistake only when Shannon fell shot in the back and the guards came alongside. It was pictured as an ambush.

Denies Acquittal Motion.

The state put on its last witness. The government attorneys, who are defending the guards, asked for an instructed verdict, saying the testimony had failed to show the five men had exceeded their legal authority. Judge William Henry Hunt overruled the motion, saying that is a matter for the jury to determine.

Two of the accused guards took the stand late in the afternoon. Ensign Philip E. Shaw, in charge of the coast guard boat, said Shannon's craft had tried to ram him. He said the coast guard boat, a converted run runner, was slower than the craft it was chasing; that it could make only ten miles where Shannon was making fourteen or fifteen.

"I did everything in my power to stop that boat in a peaceable manner," said Ensign Shaw, "and it was my duty to shoot into the boat. He was dumping his cargo overboard and he paid no attention to our repeated calls."

Ensign Not Flying.

Ensign Shaw insisted the flag of the coast guard was flying when his boat started out. He explained that the converted run runner which the squad was using had no staff, so he had one of the ladies sail a piece of something in the stern, from which the ensign was flown. Questioned, he said that at the end of the chase, after Shannon had been shot, he noticed the ensign had come loose and the flag was down. Both Shaw and Boatswain Otto Melville declared uniforms were worn at the time of the chase.

The story told by the guards was quite different from the narrative of some distressed shipwreckers who saw the occurrence. Capt. James E. Brown, master mariner, said he was sitting on the bridge of his yacht in the Flamingo basin reading a book at dusk.

Stories of Spectators.
"A little boat of dark lead color came along within thirty feet of our yacht and just cleared our launch," said Capt. Brown.
"It carried no insignia. It proceeded at a thousand feet or so and I heard a report, then a flash and another report. I didn't know what it was aiming at and I heard other shots. Other yachts were in my line of vision. It had absolutely no flag, and I saw no uniforms."

Capt. A. C. Ackershausen of the yacht Sunshine likewise saw part of the fight from his ship. He said he saw no flag, no lights. "I yelled out," he said, "Why in hell don't you stop shooting?"

The coast guard boat looked and acted for all the world like a high-jacker, according to Fred Walther, who was engineer on Shannon's boat.

Shannon's Engineer Talks.

He testified that neither Shannon nor any one else on his craft was armed. They fled because they thought a rum pirate was on their heels, he said, and did not know it was the coast guard until it was all over.

"We were coming slowly north," he testified, "We saw a boat coming towards us. It looked like a rum boat. They passed within fifty feet and we saw five men looking at us. It had no flag, no lights. I thought they were civilians, as they wore no uniforms. When they got by, they turned around, and, as they did, Shannon veered. He changed his course to see if they were following us. They changed course, too. Shannon hooked the engine up and said to 'throw overboard.'"

"So we started to throw sacks of rum overboard to lighten ship, so we could travel faster. With our load we could not make more than twelve or fourteen miles at most."

The Fatal Shots.

"All at once I saw the boat astern, shooting. I saw one man pull down on me and I jumped into the engine room. I looked up and saw Shannon's face change expression. 'I'm shot, I'm done,' he said. I tried to hold him up, and the other boat came alongside, rather excited. 'Stick them up,' they yelled. 'What the hell's the matter with you fellows?' I shouted, 'This man is shot, let's get him ashore.' They said, 'Never mind, stick them up, you—'. They were pointing their guns at us. That was the first I knew they were government officers."

"They had plenty of chance to hail and they didn't."

Creditors of Spargin Bank Given Additional Dividend

Creditors of the Michigan Avenue trust company, which was liquidated several years ago by its absconding president, Warren C. Spargin, will receive an additional two and a half per cent dividend under an order issued yesterday by Circuit Judge Harry M. Fisher. This will make a total of $1,480,000 paid to general creditors by John W. O'Leary, receiver for the bank. It comprises forty-five per cent of the claims. The order authorizing the payments was on petition of Mr. O'Leary, brought through his attorneys.

GUARD BARASA AND SERRITELLA AGAINST BOMBS

Tony Lombardo Taken Into Custody in Inquiry.

Guards were standing guard last night over the home of former Municipal Judge Bernard Barasa at 2222 Madison street, and City Sealer Daniel A. Serritella, 2018 Prairie avenue, the police apparently fearing that unless such precautionary steps were taken the judges and the sealer would be placed on the growing list of officials and politicians whose homes have been bombed recently.

So far this list contains the names of City Controller Charles C. Fitzmorris, Dr. William H. Reid, a Thompson political aid; Municipal Judge John A. Serritella, and Lawrence Cuneo, brother-in-law and secretary of State's Attorney Crowe.

Lombardo Taken Into Custody. A special squad of detectives, seeking to learn if any information concerning the blasts had been bandied about, took into custody last night Anthony Lombardo, wealthy merchant, who has for years been active in the affairs of the Unione Siciliana, of which Mr. Barasa is titular head. Samuel Genna, 356 Blue Island ave-of necessity. Even the street lights in the vicinity had been brightened to prevent any one approaching unseen.

The guard was placed about Serritella's rooming house after O. Mortimer, owner of the building, reported to the state's attorney's office that he had received threats the place would be bombed. Serritella recently was made the Crowe-Thompson committeeman for the first ward.

Commissioner of Police Michael Hughes declared that he was completely baffled by the problem of stopping bombings. He urged that special legislation be passed to enable the police to keep a closer tab on the movement of explosives.

Crime Commission Takes Hand. A third development of the day was the entry of the Chicago crime commission into the investigation. Its president, Attorney Frank J. Loecher, called on Commissioner Hughes to find out what could be done and what was being done.

The conversation, as related later by Mr. Loecher, was as follows: "What do these bombs mean?" asked Mr. Loecher.

"I don't know," said the commissioner. "Would it not be possible, Commissioner, to set a line on the sources of these bombs from the men who are bombed? Isn't it possible that the rumors are true that the gambling privileges form the basis for this war of destruction?"

"Always Some Gambling." "I didn't know there was any protected gambling," replied Commissioner Hughes. "Of course, there will always be some gambling in a big city."

"That I'll admit," said Mr. Loecher, "but I won't admit that we'll always have protected gambling."

The crime commission head then urged stern measures, pointing out that each bomb, while it damaged possibly only one person, created terror among hundreds. Commissioner Hughes assured him that everything possible was being done and that swift justice would be given to anyone who could be located.

First Delegates Instructed for Lowden, Manager Says

Clarence F. Buck, campaign manager for Frank O. Lowden, announced yesterday that the first instructed delegates elected in any state were instructed for Lowden for President. He received a telegram saying that at a convention the first congressional district of North Carolina named John L. Phelps and Miss Mary Hoskins to go to the Kansas City convention and unanimously instructed them for the Illinoisan.

Two Burned when Naphtha Used in Cleaning Explodes

Mrs. May Quant, 21, wife of Dr. Leslie Quant, 2049 Ingleside avenue, a dentist, was burned about the face and hands last evening when naphtha she was using to clean a dress exploded and ignited her clothes. Her screams attracted John Kellher from the apartment below, who attempted to carry out the burning man. He dropped it in the kitchen when his own hands were burned and the kitchen floor began to burn. Fire Lieut. Samuel Schoenfeld of squad No. 5 furnished first aid treatment to Mrs. Quant and Kellher.

DRIVER ROBBED OF USE. Two armed bandits took $55 from Louis Mitchell, 1811 North Irving avenue, as he was driving his company's truck into a private garage in the rear of 2540 North Irving avenue.

L. V. L. CONDEMNNS CHICAGOANS FOR SERVING SMALL

Many Legislators of Cook County Under Fire.

While allowing weight for other roll calls in its scoring, the Legislative Voters' league used the vote of members of the general assembly on two bills during the last session as the basis for its judgment of their independence or servility.

One of these was Gov. Len Small's amendment of the quo warranto act which the league charged was designed exclusively to protect him from ouster proceedings based on the $1,000,000 interest suit. The other was the bill placing greater restrictions around the appointment of special county prosecutors, for the fatherhood of which the league blames State's Attorney Crows of Cook county.

Upon that basis Chicago senators and representatives included in the second installment of the organization's report, made public yesterday, fared badly.

A condemnation of the verdicts on the candidates for reelection follows:

First District—Representative Charles A. Griffin, Rep. Little county. Representative John Griffin, Dem. Showed less independence than before.

Second District—Senator George Van Lask, Rep. Showed distinctly less independence than before. Representative Frank Ryan, Dem. Seemed to have laid aside all independence.

Third District—Representative Warren B. Fordice, Rep. Doubled ability, but showed little or no independence. Representative George T. Kewer, Rep. Slight increase, poor record. Representative George Gerry Noonan, Dem. Bad record.

Fourth District—Senator Frank McDermott, Dem. Not well qualified, but strong individuality. Representative Elmer V. Holman, Rep. Disappointing because of apparent lack of independence. Representative Thomas J. O'Grady, Dem. Helped Republicans regardless of public interests. Representative James P. Boyle, Dem. Showed industry and some ability.

Fifth District—Representative Sidney Lewis, Rep. Little strength. Representative Michael L. Levy, Dem. Usual aggressiveness and ability.

Sixth District—Senator James J. Barbour, Rep. Brightly effective for good government. Representative Ralph E. Church, Rep. Gave careful attention, courage and faithfulness. Representative E. A. W. Johnson, Rep. Subservient to Small.

Seventh District—Representative W. V. Trapp, Rep. Weak record. Representative Maria H. Fineman, Dem. showed lack of backbone.

Eighth District—Representative David R. Shabazz, Rep. usual industry and conscientiousness; few men have given as able and valuable service.

The league had prepared its report on the legislators in other Cook county districts and in the downstate districts which will be made public shortly.

HOUSTON BOWS TO FIRE CHIEF IN ROW OVER TESTS

Hostilities between Thomas V. Houston, president of the city civil service commission, and Fire Commissioner A. W. Goodrich were brought to a personal conclusion by Mayor Thompson yesterday, with the fire commissioner apparently victorious.

Tielding to the commissioner's demand, Mr. Houston agreed to call a new, nonpartisan examination for 75 fire engineers he had previously held ineligible. With the mayor's sanction, the engineers had obtained a temporary injunction blocking the examination until they were called.

Acting Corporation Counsel James Brown, who attended the conference of the two cabinet heads with the mayor, announced that he would ask to have the injunction dissolved.

"Everything was amicably worked out," Mr. Brown said. "We look for no further difficulties."

DEMOCRATS TAR EMMERSON WITH SMALL'S STICK

Charge G. O. P. Rivals Both Misused Funds.

The Chicago packers repaid the treasury funds taken from the state treasury paid for the Small-Curtis Emerson stock in the new bank and the liquidating dividends from the old stock repaid the treasury.

"This all definitely appears from the records of the Sangamon county Circuit court, which are open for inspection by any one. From these records it is shown conclusively that all of the stock issued to these three gentlemen was paid for by money from the state treasury of Illinois."

Glenn's Attack on Smith.
While he emphasized his opinion that "no state ever had a worse administration" than that given Illinois by Gov. Small, former State Senator Glenn devoted his chief attention to his own battle for the Republican nomination to the United States senate. In his statement he said:

"It is my belief that the vacancy which has existed since the death of Senator McKinley in December, 1922, should be filled. The interests of seven million citizens of our state are more important than the personal ambitions of any candidate."

"No Republican has a right to demand that his party of 1,500,000 voters in this commonwealth disregard its duty to the state and its people in order that he may pursue a desperate and unscrupulous hope that the senate will change its deliberate judgment, twice expressed, after thorough consideration of the evidence."

"The fact that Col. Smith holds unprejudiced to the senate, which is now in session, new credentials by appointment of Gov. Small, justifies the belief that he feels his case is indeed hopeless."

"If he is nominated, elected and again rejected, it will mean that for at least four years the welfare of Illinois has been sacrificed in a vain effort to gratify the desires of one person."

Attacks Small's Ideas.
"I entertain no ill will or malice against Gov. Small, but my opposition to his political ideas and governmental practices continues unchanged, strengthened and verified by the passing years. I am more confirmed than ever in my judgment that no state ever had a worse administration."

"I admire the usefulness and courage of Attorney General Carstrom in sacrificing his ambition and dedicating his labors to the cause of good government, and am happy in joining him and those of like thought in electing Secretary of State Emerson governor and restoring decent and efficient government to the state."

Emmerson's Strength Told.
In the absence of the candidate, Emerson headquarters were not in a position to comment on the Donovan attack, but made public a letter sent to party workers throughout the state urging support "for a man who will strengthen the ticket and help it to win in every county in the state."

Reviewing the results in 1922 when Small was re-elected governor and Emmerson secretary of state, the letter said:

"Mr. Emmerson was given the greatest vote ever obtained by any candidate for any office in Illinois. His plurality was 47,010 more than that of President Coolidge and 978,353 greater than that of Gov. Small. In Cook county Emmerson's plurality exceeded Small's by 283,139 and downstate by 283,139."

"Gov. Small lost eight of the downstate senatorial districts. Mr. Emmerson carried every one of them by substantial majorities, piling up a plurality 4,933 greater than Small's in the governor's own district. Mr. Small carried 70 of the 103 counties. Mr. Emmerson carried 31 counties. These figures speak for themselves."

ALWAYS MILLION WITHOUT WORK, DAVIS DECLARES

Secretary of Labor James J. Davis last night declared there are at all times in America about a million men who are without work because they are not able to work or are unwilling to take the work offered them. He spoke at the eighteenth annual banquet of the Kynry society in the Palmer house.

Secretary Davis said that these men are the ones who go about when times are hard complaining the loudest that they can't get a job.

"They go to an office or factory seeking work, but secretly hoping and wishing that they won't be able to get it," he said.

COLOSSUS OF THE NORTH OFF HOME WITH 18 FRIENDS

Havana Parley Looked On as Helpful to U. S.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

HAVANA, Feb. 21.—Goodby, Havana, we're going home — Charlie Hughes and the rest of the United States delegation to the sixth Pan-American congress, secretaries, typists, interpreters, newspaper reporters, and other camp followers of the American expeditionary force.

Goodby Latin Americans. See you at Montevideo, Uruguay, in 1933, when the seventh conference meets. We got acquainted with you and you with us, in your mutual benefit. We found you were just as human—well, as ourselves. We found you are animated by consideration of your own interest, just like us, and, of course, you have that about us, long ago.

Goodby Spanish language, we're going back to tell the home folks to learn you and learn you young so they will not have to go about with a pocket dictionary or an interpreter when they want to talk to Latin American diplomats or shake their hands. No that's not exactly so, for a barkeep who can't speak English can't get a job in Havana.

Back to Land of Volstead. Goodby South Sea bar. We leave you with your brass rail, highly and lovingly polished by the feet of the downy victims of American tyranny. We're going back to the land of Volstead. Three cheers for the red, white and blue, the Anti-Saloon league, and the W. C. T. U.

Goodby restaurant Paris, the Ingleses and Telegrafos, to Gallegos soup, pumpkin baked in paper bags, to lobster, crawfish and to cream cheese with guava jelly. We're going back to the only country that knows how to hold a breakfast.

Goodby dimpling, dimpling señoritas and señoritas, with your eyes and hair of Egyptian night. You are very pretty and you have been very nice to us, but we're going home to the beautiful women in the world, God bless us.

Goodby to bare tiled floors, twenty-two foot ceilings, latticed doors and windows. We're going back to the carpeted, low celled, glorified huts of the Nordics, with a fire burning on the hearth and everything snug and cozy. Goodby to cloudless skies and tropical sun. We're going home from a land that never saw a snowstorm to jump into a snow drift, if we can find one, and just lie right down and "melt" there.

Hughes Goes Home Happy. Mr. Hughes has just passed through the hotel lobby all ready to sail for New York. He has put off his "shiny topcoat," as he calls the formal attire, in which he has appeared, so often in the last six weeks of high finance.

He is looking very happy, and when you meet him you find him even jollier than usual. Good reason, therefore, you think, for he has carried himself with glory at this congress, and scored a great and gloriously lasting triumph for his country.

The crucial importance of this congress was recognized long ago and by men more keenly than by President Coolidge. A crisis was at hand in the administration of our foreign relations in the western hemisphere, and Mr. Hughes, long occupied and Nicaragua newly intervened in, the cry of

WALL STREET BETS HUGHES WILL BE A G. O. P. CANDIDATE

New York, Feb. 21.—[Special.]—Despite the assertion of Charles Evans Hughes that he would not accept a nomination for the presidency, a Wall Street betting commission announced today the placing of a wager of $1,000 that Mr. Hughes will be the Republican candidate this year. More wagers at these odds were said to be available.

Wall Street bettors have made Secretary Hoover the favorite for the Republican nomination, the odds against him being 3 to 2. Next comes Vice President Dawes with odds of 3 to 1. Lowden 5 to 1 and Nicholas Murray Butler and Senator Curtis of Kansas, 10 to 1.

American imperialism had been more menacingly raised than ever before by some of the Latin Americans, and by our liberals at home.

Out Daniels Daniel.

It was known that the sixth Pan-American congress was to be the scene of a determined attempt to knock into a cocked hat the traditional policy of the United States in policing the Caribbean for the protection of its vital interests.

Mr. Coolidge picked Mr. Hughes to go down into this lions' den and beard the lions, because he was the best qualified man in the whole country to do it. There simply is not any one else who combines legal acumen and knowledge of our foreign relations and of international law with the art of diplomacy to the extent that Mr. Hughes does. Mr. Coolidge prevailed upon Mr. Hughes to take on the job. The result was that Mr. Hughes did his country a great patriotic service at the personal sacrifice of his law business for six weeks. Mr. Hughes not only bearded the lions, but out Daniel Daniel. He convinced most of the Latin Americans that they have nothing to fear from the "Colossus of the north." That what the United States is doing to preserve order is for the benefit of the Latin as much as of ourselves, and those who on the final showdown stayed to fight it out with Mr. Hughes finally turned tail and ran.

18 Republics Back U. S.

Eighteen of the twenty Latin American republics repudiated the effort to force through this conference a declaration outlawing the intervention policy of the United States. Argentina and Salvador were repudiated so overwhelmingly by their fellow Latin Americans that in the opinion of many, the standing of these two South American and Central American republics in the family of American nations has been seriously injured.

It was Mr. Hughes who turned the tide of criticism of the United States, and brought his country out of the conference a victor. The crisis which Mr. Coolidge foresaw, was met and satisfactorily disposed of. The United States was given a clean bill of health by the Latin Americans on the intervention issue. In that respect, the conference is likely to go down in history as marking a further development of the doctrines underlying our policies in the western hemisphere. Well may Mr. Hughes smile adieu, Havana.

Backache May Be Due to Various Causes But Often Warns of Sluggish Kidneys

DOES every day find you lame, stiff and achy? Do you feel tired and drowsy—suffer nagging backache, headache and dizzy spells? Are the kidney secretions scanty, too frequent, or painful in passage?

Know, then, that these are often signs of improper kidney action. Sluggish kidneys allow acid poisons to remain in the blood and upset the whole system.

If your kidneys are acting sluggishly, assist them with Doan's Pills. Doan's, a stimulant diuretic, increase the secretion of the kidneys and thus aid in the elimination of waste impurities. Doan's are recommended the country over. Ask your neighbor!

PUT SOFT PEDAL ON TRANSIT TILL PRIMARY IS OVER

Mayor and Small Reported Ready to Drop Bills.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.
The planning of a transportation program, by means of a consolidation of the surface and elevated lines under a franchise called a "terminable" permit, has slowed down to the point where it is hardly moving. There is no "pop" exhibited among any of the leaders in the scheme.

Mayor Thompson and Gov. Small are reported to be ready to drop the whole matter. They have not reached a decision to do so, but they are said to be considering it. If they do finally decide for no action at present, it is planned to have the scheduled session tomorrow of the council subcommittee on drafting enabling legislation, followed by still another meeting next week, and then let the thing freeze out.

A Soft Pedal Program.
No announcement is to be made that transportation is considered too hot a subject to handle immediately before the primary. Instead, according to the reported program, some report or opinion is to be called for which will take a lot of time and which will consequently kill off public discussion of transportation until after primary day, April 16.

So far as Gov. Small is concerned, it is reported that traction matters will continue thereafter to lie on the shelf until after the November election. Before this Tribune printed the cartoon entitled "The Deal," it is said that Gov. Small predicted that the lower house of the assembly would pass an acceptable "terminable" permit and other necessary transit bills. That prediction in effect was considered an offer of aid, because no controversial legislation has been able to get the necessary house votes without the governor's whip on the backs of sundry representatives.

Attitude Changed Now.
The governor is now said to hold a modified attitude. In addition Mayor Thompson is reported to think that "opinionous agitation" transportation under present conditions may reduce the governor's chances of re-election," according to the phrasing of one of the mayor's friends; and the mayor's indorsement of the governor over the protests of some of his close political associates makes him unusual.

INVENTORY OF FAIR ESTATE LISTS HOLDINGS WORTH $2,000,000

The inventory of Robert M. Fair's estate filed yesterday before Leon Edelman, assistant to Probate Judge Henry Horner, shows real estate valued at $1,000,000 and a well diversified selection of stocks and bonds worth another $1,000,000. Mr. Fair, who died last Oct. 31 at the age of 83, retired in 1905 from the managing partnership of Marshall Field & Co. His fortune was self-made.

A second large inventory filed for probate during the day was of the estate of Mrs. Phoebe Selpp, widow of William C. Selpp, Chicago brewer. It lists holdings worth $1,600,000, including many securities of doubtful or desperate value. Mrs. Selpp, who was widely known for her charity work, died on Oct. 28.

The principal beneficiaries under Mr. Fair's will are his two children, Charles M. Fair of Oyster Bay, L. I., and Mrs. Helen Fair McCullough of Manhattan, L. I.

Mrs. Selpp left most of her estate to her brothers and sisters, Mrs. Clara L. Schmidt, 212 East Delaware place, Mrs. Julia Ida Hesser of the Drake hotel, William H. Rehm, 1525 Astor street, and Frank A. Rehm of the Drake.

By anxious to have his candidate win in April.

Two friends of the mayor said they feel certain that he will soft pedal transit matters because of his interest in Small's candidacy as well as in his own prestige. The mayor's own political standing is of no small concern to him. He won his nomination for mayor a year ago by a plurality of 180,390, but it is said that he does not hope to do that well for Small. It is said that he would be perfectly satisfied with half that plurality for Small in April.

Governor's Weakness Shown.
The record shows that Gov. Small is not a popular candidate in Cook county. In the 1924 campaign Small ran 252,762 votes behind the presidential candidate in Cook county, and approximately the same amount behind in 1924.

As a candidate in 1920 Small won the nomination in the state by only 7,902 and in 1924 carried Cook county by only 2,394. That is the particular figure which is said to worry Mayor Thompson. Politicians assert that the backing of L. L. Emmerson for governor at present against Small is much more substantial and influential than that sponsoring Lexington against Small four years ago. These few figures clearly indicate that Mayor Thompson may have good reason for desiring the elimination of the transit matter from the primary contest.

If the mayor is unable to carry

Cook county for Small, political observers point out that enemies of the mayor will probably proclaim that he has begun to slip, which in turn would decrease the power of his leadership.

Aldermen Want Action.
The aldermen technically in charge of the preparation of the proposed transit bills are not enthusiastic over quitting the job. They would like to go ahead. Some of them believe that Gov. Small still intends to call a special session of the general assembly to consider transit enabling legislation.

But the city council is largely Democratic and the Democratic leaders believe that they have a better chance of electing Judge Thompson governor with Small as the Republican nominee than with Secretary of State Emmerson. The Democratic aldermen are therefore not expected to oppose any order Mayor Thompson may issue to drop the hot potato.

There is still another factor in the situation. Certain representatives of the transportation interests are said to dislike being mixed in the turbulent political mess for the next seven or eight months. Some interests want to get out now and get out completely, and one man is reported to have told the mayor that transit discussion is not stopped at once he will step out and so announce within a short time.

Still another straw in the wind was the announcement from Springfield yesterday that the Illinois Commerce commission has suspended the increased fare scheduled on the elevated lines of Chicago until July 15.

ARVEY CHANGES STAND

An apparent flop by Ald. Jacob Arvey (24th), a member of the council local transportation committee, from a term permit-municipal ownership stand on the transit question to the terminable permit camp was disclosed yesterday in a letter produced by John Maynard Harlan, attorney for the Lisman plan.

Ald. Arvey's municipal ownership letter was written to him Sept. 20, 1926, Mr. Harlan said, when the alderman was one of former Mayor Dever's floor leaders.

In the recent negotiations Ald. Arvey has strongly advocated a terminable permit bill; in fact, is author of one of those under consideration. This bill was termed by Ald. Wiley Mills (37th) as one that would make the permit "absolutely perpetual."

His letter read as follows:
"We like the idea of the city becoming owner of its transportation lines, free from incumbency and without direct cost to it—but fifty years is a long time to wait."

Wants Bonds Paid Off.
"We would like to see that accomplished much sooner if possible, so that this generation and its children might have the benefit of the lower fare which city ownership without incumbency would make possible. We wish Mr. Lisman and you could work out a plan that, without any increase in fare, would pay off all the present first mortgage bondholders, as well as pay back the new money in twenty years, and in another ten years pay off the balance of the company's debt so that the city would own the property within thirty years free from incumbency."

PAN-AMERICAN FRIENDSHIP

The twenty-one republics of the two Americas, in representative conference at Havana, have joined one another in condemning war as a national policy in the western hemisphere. Further, they have said they were ready to agree on obligatory arbitration in all disputes of a juridical nature. Still further, they have adopted a specific plan for the definition of those questions which can and shall be settled by arbitration, and they have expressed the wish that a maximum of questions shall be included.

Thus the Pan-American congress comes to an auspicious end, with the after feeling one of good will and confidence. Yet to a reasonable end, no nation having committed itself or having been committed to a foolish course of action beyond hope or possibility of realization. No league has been created to determine matters which nations must reserve for their own decision. No court has been set up to live a meaningless existence because a court, where submission to its rule is mandatory, must own the power to enforce its decision in order to be effective.

As far as the United States is concerned, it has promised nothing that will jeopardize the force of the Monroe Doctrine, weaken its ascendancy in the Caribbean, or require it to adjudicate questions such as immigration and the tariff, which, though indirectly international in effect, cannot be admitted to foreign discussion. It may be asked, then, what use is an agreement of the American nations on obligatory arbitration if each consents to arbitrate only those matters which it is already willing to arbitrate?

There is this use: Such an agreement expresses a policy and an intention. As has been specifically provided in the Havana resolution, it forms a basis for further negotiations with the idea that the list of arbitrable matters may continue to grow. By imposing early arbitration, it promises to settle disputes before they have grown into major quarrels.

The most binding treaty can do no more. No treaty ever completely prevented war any more than criminal laws in themselves are able to prevent crime. Often sufficient cause, nations will fight, or will refrain from fighting when they have agreed to fight, or will turn coat and fight on the other side; nor can any treaty prevent. We in the United States pride ourselves on being law abiding and mindful of promises given; yet our own history as a nation began with treaties broken—treaties signed with France to whom we owed much for assistance during the revolution.

Treaties are powerless against great instantaneities—social and economic forces. The world holds too diverse opinions as to law and order and the proper way of living for any public sentiment to exist, and self-preservation is and must remain the rule. Law presupposes overwhelming force applied from above or an overwhelming sentimentality growing up from below. No such single force, so far as community sentiment, exists in the world today. Even agreements to free air that promulgated at the Pan-American conference can succeed only among nations with close ties and mutual interests; nor could this agreement expect success were it not for the strength of the United States, to which the neighbor nations look, in the face of their distrust of each other, and despite criticism of this country's policy.

The United States, we believe, can leave the conference with a sense of having acted wisely and generously. All that can be done toward peace has been done. What cannot be done until nations are as wise and kind as some of their people has not been attempted. The delegation headed by Mr. Hughes went to Havana under trying circumstances. It went to talk union, peace, and friendship while the marines were fighting in Nicaragua. It entered a conference primed for a concentrated attack on the United States policy in regard to Latin America. It leaves the conference with this country's right to protect its citizens and its interests still intact, and yet with a new feeling of mutual confidence pervading the western hemisphere. Thanks to Mr. Hughes' notable statement of the United States' methods and aims, it leaves with the enhanced prestige that could come only from honest, courageous talk. It leaves the conference with the ground prepared for further progress toward peace in the Americas and we hope, for some future understanding between the American republics according to which order and security can be maintained with a true regard for individual sovereignty and yet with an equal regard for individual safety—that is now possible under the Monroe Doctrine.

AMERICAN FILMS ABROAD.
France is joining Great Britain in restricting the distribution of American films. A new censorship decree has been published to control the volume of foreign business and to stimulate French production. One requirement is that pictures shall come with their original content, subtitles and all. They cannot be doctored for export, to avoid offenses to French taste and sentiment.

bilities. In France they speak of the Americanization of the French as in Great Britain they speak of the Americanization of the British, by the power and influence of the American film. American retaliation against possible foreign influences would cause considerable unhappiness, particularly in England. If the restriction of American films were followed by the barring of British novels the writing trade over there would be miserable. Distinction in England means profits in America and there is not much reciprocity in it. Distinction in America does not mean profits in Great Britain.

The United States is the best lecture hall in the world for the English. American lecturers would starve to death in England. There are several reasons for the restriction of American moving pictures and they do not all have to do with the protection of the British picture industry. It is not only that the American picture is charged with unduly all that Mr. Kipling has done, with distracting youth from the British tradition to the American. One reason is that the American picture is filling British labor with conviction that something is missing in the economic organization of society.

Where Soviet Russia has failed to entice the British proletariat into revolution by revealing anything to be gained by it, the United States innocently might beguile it by pictures of an astonishing amount of comfort and ease. The American workman in his car might have a more disturbing effect than the Russian workman in his patched clothing. At that, it might not be fatal if American pictures succeeded in establishing some American conditions in Great Britain. It might be an act of the greatest good will, although not so regarded at present by British authorities.

THE DEMOCRATS MAY LAUGH LAST

The Washington correspondents are looking forward to a bitter row in the Democratic convention this year. Al Smith, they say, will demand a plank in the platform authorizing the definition of the word "intoxication" by the states rather than by congress. Whether Smith is nominated or not, his supporters in the convention are certain to be sufficiently numerous to force the issue to the front. The drys will resist, and, if defeated, will carry their resentment away with them.

This prospect is, no doubt, pleasant to members of the Republican national committee. In spite of Mr. Borah's efforts to smoke out the candidates, the probability is that most of the Republican candidates will prefer ambiguity to straightforward statement on the prohibition issue. It is even probable that ambiguity and waffle phrases will be rewarded. The instinct of the run of political leaders is to postpone and, if possible, avoid forthright commitment on tender subjects. Accordingly, there will be much talk of strict enforcement of all the laws, but with due regard for the constitutional rights of the citizens to security in their persons and property. That formula is intended to ride herd simultaneously on the drys by seeming to promise vigorous enforcement of the Volstead law and on the wets by hinting at slack enforcement. It means everything and nothing.

Meanwhile, under the spur of Al Smith the Democrats are likely to declare themselves for prohibition. The achievement may split the party at this election, but by 1932 the Democrats will be in a much stronger position. Prohibition fanatics and cruelty have already alienated many stanch drys, and will continue to do so. The Republican party by 1932 will be forced to take sides, and the only side left to take will be dry. Its position will be not unlike that of the Democratic party in 1880 when the opposition of the Republicans to the extension of slavery had forced the Democrats to defend it. Northern Democrats found it impossible to continue in association with southern Democrats, the party was broken, and it has never again achieved its earlier strength.

A success for Willis, the Anti-Saloon league candidate in Ohio, can have serious consequences for his party. It will encourage the party leaders to continue to equivocate on prohibition, regardless of the rising tide of opinion in the country demanding the dethronement of the fanatics and the modification of the law under which they are operating.

CHICAGO'S LOVELY WEATHER

The natural beauty of the Chicago region took a licking from a snowstorm and a drop in temperature. It was not unacceptable. The younger part of the population could have done with a little more snow for the last month and the fall gave the city another chance to produce one of its better days, the clearing of the streets. It serves also to call attention to the natural quality of the climate. No bad weather is made here. This storm came from Manitoba. The Chicago product is even, inspiring, when it can be distinguished from smoke, of equable temperature, never too cold and never too hot. Any variations that are imposed upon this community by its neighbors. Cold waves and hot waves are made up elsewhere and sent in. If Chicago could dodge them, if they could be detected or shut out by a weather wall this garden spot would have no disturbance of perfect comfort.

Editorial of the Day

THE BAR AGAINST PROHIBITION

(Brooklyn N. Y.) Eagle.

The Association of the Bar of the City of New York, after long and serious debate at a closed session where no speaker would be tempted for political or other reasons to pose or rant, adopts by 88 to 25, not quite a three-fourths vote, a resolution "That it is the sense of this association that the eighteenth amendment, the Volstead act, and all orders and regulations for the enforcement thereof should be repealed and the subject of prohibition be committed to the sole regulation of the several states."

In this utterance no wags' words appear. Conscientious lawyers may or may not believe in prohibition or practice total abstinence, but they have been able to gauge better than citizens or non-lawyers the effect of forcing prohibition on unwilling communities, in bringing disrepute on all law, in creating intolerable congestion of the courts, in substituting immense graft contributions for the taxes levied to pay to the state, and in distracting political attention from vital issues of domestic and foreign policy. They know what they are talking about.

In a state where public sentiment favors prohibition these evils largely disappear. "The sole regulation of the several states" is an alternative suggested. That is the condition that prevailed before the eighteenth amendment materialized. Discontent has got back to it has academic interest. That is what the lawyers are leaving to the publicists and the politicians.

JUST MISSED IT

Employer—Sam, I hear you and George almost had a fight.
Sam—Yamash, how we all would 'a' had a terrible fracas, only they wasn't nobody there to hold us apart—L.H.

How to Keep Well... By Dr. W. A. Evans.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, upon matters of common concern. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

(Copyright, 1928; By The Chicago Tribune.)

THE PROBLEM OF RABIES

RABIES is disturbing the people of Europe just as it is our people. There was almost no rabies in Germany in the period just prior to the war. According to Dr. Klotz, the authorities had about wiped the disease out. When the soldiers came back from the war they brought home a miscellaneous assortment of trench pots. Dogs ran wild among them. In part due to the soldiers' dogs and in part due to the general let-down in authority subsequent to the war, Germany is being overrun by stray dogs. Between 1910 and 1924 the number of cases of rabies in dogs averaged about four hundred a year. In 1924 there were 1,191 such cases. Prior to 1914 the number of people bitten by dogs averaged about 100 a year. In 1923 the number of persons officially reported as having been bitten by dogs was 1,490.

They are taking active steps to bring the situation under control. All stray dogs are shot. Dogs must be licensed. Every licensed dog must wear a collar on which are the owner's name and address. Muzzling of dogs is not required. Vaccination of dogs is not required. The importation of dogs can only be through quarantine stations in which the dogs are held for observation. The campaign against hydrophobia has been given publicity by the press and in the movies. In Bavaria the problem has been pretty well solved. In France the vaccination of dogs against hydrophobia is not required, according to Veterinary Medicine.

Great Britain is disturbed by its dog problem just as Germany is. They also view the rabies of the present as a world war. They say a large part of their problem is due to the surreptitious importation of dogs in flying machines. Their measures for control are great limitations on restriction of importation, licensing, muzzling, and the reporting of all cases of dog bites.

MOORE ON SORE THROAT

Mrs. H. H. S. writes: I noted Mrs. C. H. H. letter complaining of sore nipples. I suffered with the same trouble with both my babies and suggest that if Mrs. C. H. H. will get a mixture of balsam Peru and castor oil from her druggist she will undoubtedly be greatly relieved, as it helped me wonderfully.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

Letters to this department must be signed with names and addresses of writers.

PAT FOR LABOR

Chicago, Feb. 18.—(Legal Friend of the People.)—Can a lawyer, engaged on Aug. 5, 1926, collect his fee if the case is dropped? I signed a contract stating he was to receive 40 per cent of settlement, court costs to be paid by me.

According to my lawyer, this case was to be settled by the spring of 1927. Since last May I have had no information from him. He has refused to return my calls. Can I drop the case without being the loser? Mrs. C. W. You can drop the case, but you would have to pay him a reasonable fee for services that he has performed.

TRIBUTE LAW DEPARTMENT

OHIO LIMITATION PERIOD.
Chicago, Feb. 17.—(Legal Friend of the People.)—In the state of Ohio a owes $1500 for which B holds a note payable in three years at 6 per cent interest. One year is up and B is unable to locate A to collect interest, which is due annually.

1. Will B be running a risk of losing the interest on note if A is not located before the note is due?
2. Is there a time limit in which the interest must be demanded.
D. A. 1. No.
2. The Ohio limitation period on notes is fifteen years.

TRIBUTE LAW DEPARTMENT

OUT AGAIN IN AGAIN.
Chicago, Feb. 17.—(Legal Friend of the People.)—Will you please tell me through your column how long two divorced people must wait before marrying again in the state of Illinois and also in the state of Indiana. Decrees were granted in other state (Minnesota), whose laws require six months to elapse before marrying again.

R. H. S. We do not require if the Minnesota decree is final as distinguished from interlocutory.
TRIBUTE LAW DEPARTMENT.

CASE IN SAFE

Chicago, Feb. 18.—(Legal Friend of the People.)—Can a car owned by a nineteen year old boy be taken by his father's creditors?
D. P. Not on the facts stated.
TRIBUTE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 22, 1863.

HALIFAX.—The Canada from Liverpool, 7th, brings latest European news. The Polish insurrection was spreading. Wengrow had been taken by the Russians after a sanguinary battle. In England the queen's speech contains very little of importance, except the following: "Her majesty has abstained from taking any step with a view to interfering in the conflict between the contending parties of the North American states because it has not yet seemed to her that any such overtures could be attended with any probability of success."

PHILADELPHIA.—A Washington special says that accords report Col. Pittsford Lee at Culpeper Court House with 2,000 cavalry.

CAIRO.—Gen. Huribut has issued a stringent order against speculation or extortion by officers or soldiers from citizens of Memphis. It is also reported that Gen. Grant has revoked the order prohibiting the sale of the Chicago Times in his district.

CHICAGO.—In saying yesterday that Arizona had been admitted into the Union, we were wrong. The bill that passed provided for a territorial, not a state, organization. Hereafter Arizona has been attached to New Mexico, and occupied a rather anomalous civil status. It was not considered a part of New Mexico, nor yet did it possess a government. The bill passed by congress remedies this defect.

CHICAGO.—William W. Younglove and Miss Mary Ashton Ealden were married at St. John's church on Feb. 14 by the Rev. H. N. Bishop.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 22, 1898.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Congress is not disposed to wait very long for the report of the naval board of inquiry into the Maine explosion. Private talks with members both of the senate and the house clearly indicate that there is a volcano at the capitol which may burst into activity at almost any time. Pictures of the wreck received here have gone far to increase the number of congress that the Maine was blown up from the outside.

MADRID.—The admiral commanding at Havana telegraphed that the Spanish official investigation of the catastrophe to the Maine terminated today, and that the first exploration made by official divers has shown that the disaster was accidental and not caused by any exterior cause. The queen regent expressed satisfaction on hearing the result of the investigation.

HAVANA.—But little work could be done today on the wreck of the Maine by Capt. Sigbee's divers, because it

ALUMINUM UTENSILS.

L. P. B. writes: I recently read an article by a rather prominent authority, supposedly, in which he condemns the use of aluminum cooking utensils. He goes into details as to the various chemical compounds produced by the action of various foods on the metal. He contends that a great share of the stomach ulcers, tumors and even cancers are caused directly or indirectly by the eating of foods cooked in aluminum vessels.

In view of the general interest of the public in the matter, I shall be grateful for an answer to this in your column.

WHEN TO EAT DINNER.

H. S. writes: "When would it be more healthful to eat dinner, at noon or at night?"

REPLY.
For the normal person it makes no difference. He can do as his wife wishes. As a rule, sedentary workers are a little later if they eat a heavy meal at noon. On the other hand, most farmers and many other out-of-door workers prefer to eat the heavy meal at that hour.

In large cities the rule is the evening meal is called dinner because the family can get together better. Men and women beyond 50 years of age should not eat a heavy evening meal. This is particularly true of overweight men and women.

TEA WITH LEMON.

Mrs. L. A. writes: My husband and I both love tea with sugar and lemon. I have heard much of the healthfulness of the lemon to milk or cream. Our cousin, however, informs us that lemon and the tannic acid in the tea combine to make this a poisonous drink. Is this so?

FOODS RICH IN LIFE.

T. Y. writes: "Please tell me what foods contain lime."
REPLY.
Among the foods that are rich in lime are: Milk and various foods made from milk. Eggs, especially the yolk, contain lime. Whole grain cereals and breads; greens and other vegetables.

A FEBRUARY STORY

(Reprinted by request.)

THIS is something that's got to be told in February, even if it's on the day that is only put into February every fourth year. It's a February story because February was the month in which, when I was a boy, I used to break forth with greatest fury against the British. It was George Washington's birthday month, and so all during those four weeks I used to kill as many British as possible.

They were very easy to kill. I only had to draw them on my slate in their pompous Revolutionary uniforms and then I would draw in American cannon balls flying right at the British heads. The casualty list was terrible. I suppose that during my early life I must have killed at least fifty thousand British soldiers.

It was a great many years after that I campaigned with the British tank corps operating with the White army dodging around in the swamps southwest of Petrograd. I didn't get on well with the colonel of the outfit, for one night at supper I brandished my American army identity tag on my wrist and baited the colonel into asking me what the "A. E. F." meant. He bit and with great joy I told him it stood for "After England Faded."

The colonel never spoke to me after that, and the whole British tank corps outfit regarded me with great coldness. One night, while lying in the warehouse used as a hospital at Yamburg, I was feeling unusually blue. The Bolsheviks had been doing a little target practice in the afternoon, and the "whang" of the exploding shells was a noise that they were coming in before long and all of us wounded would be stood up against somebody's brick wall and shot.

I heard outside the sound of shuffling feet, and the officer lying on the floor next to me said our White army had begun to evacuate Yamburg. Then we heard the rumbling of the British tanks. So they were going, too! Englishmen, yes, but, confound them, they spoke the same language I did, and they were scampering out like rats, with never a thought for me. "WHANG!" Another shell, and what glaze there was left in the ramshackle old warehouse rattled ominously. I commenced to think up some appropriate last words. "I regret that I have but one life to give to—me," that one had been done.

Then, suddenly, the door of the warehouse opened and in blew that old hard-boiled British colonel. "I say," shouted the colonel, "I suppose you've heard those silly shells and likewise a lot of nonsense about the blinkin' old Reds coming in and shooting all you poor blighters—eh, what? I merely dropped in to say that the best tank we've got is now on the way here and will remain outside that door, and if we have to leave this bally place my Tommies will put you in the tank and out you go, snug as a bug in a giddy old rug—eh—what?"

I tried to thank the colonel, but somehow I choked a good deal. "Oh, chuck all that," said the colonel, awkwardly, his face getting very red. "I couldn't very well do otherwise. Anglo-Saxons—one and all—same old bulldog breed—hands across the sea—eh—and all that sort of rot, what! Anyhow, old thing, you're a Yank, you know, and damn, we're going to get you out of this rotten hole alive, if it takes the whole blithering British army, led in person by the jolly old king. And that's that. Cheerio!"

I went to sleep right after that—the first sleep I had in weeks—and all night long I dreamed I was a boy again in school drawing British soldiers on my slate. But I didn't draw in any American cannon balls. I looked at my British soldiers and found I had drawn a bright, gleaming halo over the head of every blessed one of them.

TANKS GROWING IN POWER AND WARFARE SPEED

Many Improvements Made
Since World War.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., Feb. 21.—[Special.] Tanks, light, fast and powerful, will form the backbone of the new mechanized striking force which is being added to the American military establishment. This was made plain today when the war department announced that tank development in the last few years had made it more effective than it was during the war.

"The tank of the world war," department officials said today, "was largely regarded as an auxiliary of the infantryman. Today it has undergone a complete transformation, and it will still, in certain circumstances, continue its rôle of aiding the infantry, the future will find it as the nucleus of the army's mechanized units."

By Its Use as Striking Force.

While no definite plans for the utilization of the tank have been worked out, army officers are now considering the possibility of all tanks in one unit. They will be kept together, tanks would be assigned to other arms as necessary, but under ordinary circumstances they would be utilized as a powerful striking force capable of moving across points and driving out the enemy from the objectives of the infantry and the artillery.

"The tank was an infant in the world war and merely crept along," department said today in describing the development of this mechanized weapon. "Now it has grown up and moved to run."

Speed Increased Threefold.

"The latest model of light tank developed by the ordnance department contains the element of speed, maneuverability, mechanical reliability, simplicity, protection against small arms and shell fragments, and ability to attack other personnel or material targets. Speed has been increased threefold, from six to eighteen miles an hour."

HUNGARY TAKES SLAP AT LEAGUE; DESTROYS GUNS

Balks Council Quiz on Arms Shipment.

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

GENEVA, Feb. 21.—[White M. Paul-Boncour was telling the committee on security and arbitration at the second meeting today what the league of nations needed to enforce peace was a strong international police and detective service, league circles were thrown into consternation by the receipt of reports from Budapest that the Hungarians had destroyed five carloads of machine guns on the eve of the league council meeting. The council had planned to go to the bottom of the whole St. Gothard affair.

(After passing through Austria as machinery from Italy, ostensibly for Poland, Austrian customs officials discovered the shipment was made up of guns and demanded Hungary return the arms. The Hungarians refused and the matter was taken before the league by the little entente nations.)

Hungary's action is looked upon here as one of the hardest slaps given to the council since it was founded. High officials were chagrined when they learned what had happened. It is admitted that the affair shows the league's complete helplessness so long as it has no teeth to back up its work.

Chalm Italy Instigated Destruction.

The spirit of brotherly love supposed to pervade the league is not helped by a report emanating from a high source tonight that it was at the instigation of Italy that the guns, of which there were enough to equip fifty regiments, were destroyed just a week before the league council, which convenes on March 5, had a chance to make the investigation demanded.

It is reliably stated that the mysterious guns, dispatched from Italy to Hungary, were of Austrian make. They were captured during the world war, and therefore could only be the property of the Italian government. When Rome realized that it could no longer maintain its original stand that the guns were the property of a private concern and the government was not responsible for their shipment to Hungary, pressure suddenly was brought to Budapest to destroy the guns, league or no league.

The council now will have to explain to the little entente nations that it is powerless to do anything because the evidence has been destroyed, and Roumania, Jugoslavia, and Czechoslovakia will have to content themselves with the mere allegation that the treaty of Trianon was grossly violated, while the power suspected to be back of the whole machine gun episode—Italy—probably will not even be mentioned at the council meeting. The security commission, after listening to the French and Italian reports, adjourned at noon and went to work to draw up half a dozen model drafts, out of which it is hoped to get one which all will accept as the basis for security and arbitration.

M. Paul-Boncour's speech showed the French stand has not changed. France favors all manner of treaties, bilateral or multilateral, and demands adequate guarantees before any step toward disarmament reduction is made.

It is the consensus of opinion on all sides here that there is no chance for a general disarmament conference being called during 1928.

Tuxedo Bed Davenport ~ $215

FROM OUR OWN SHOPS

This popular Tuxedo model is all covered in Black Striped Mohair with reversible cushions in vivid vari-colored Damask; there is the added finish of fringe trimming round the base. The underconstruction is the convenient convertible Bed arrangement, comfortable both as a Sofa and as a Bed.

The provision for the "extra bed" is no longer a problem in modern homes. Nor is it necessary to detract from the smart Living Room by accommodating a clumsy sofa, as in the past, which by its line and size immediately calls attention to it as a concealed bed arrangement for emergency usage. Now any attractive and full size Sofa in our wide display may be obtained with the added convenience of a convertible bed arrangement. A sofa in which none of the soft resiliency is lost when it serves its chair purpose and which by the simplest operation becomes a full size restful bed. This advantage is deftly concealed behind any covering you may choose from our comprehensive showing of fabrics. The accomplishment of this unusual arrangement is a matter of extreme pride with the John M. Smyth Store because it again emphasizes the efficiency with which our Shops continue to operate over the long period of over fifty years, making Smyth Upholstery soft and strong.

U. S. GOLD POURS INTO BOLIVIA TO BUILD UP LAND

Nation Needs Farms to Replace Mines.

BY JOHN CLAYTON.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
LA PAZ, Bolivia, Feb. 21.—Bolivia is the mountain nation where the Spaniards first faced rebellion in South America and where they made their last stand against the program of the South American peoples. This country once was second in area on the southern continent, only to lose nitrate fields, rubber forests, grazing lands to its neighbors, but today it is looking forward to a new era of prosperity brought about by the influx of money from the United States.

Bolivia long has been the stepchild of South America. When Marshal Sucre defeated the Spaniards at Ayacucho and Junin, and Bolivar and Sucre won the battle of Tumaco, Bolivia had made good his claims to a territory of more than 1,150,000 square miles. Today its area is reduced to some 400,000 square miles.

Antofagasta and its seacoast were lost to Chile through the disastrous war of the Pacific. More land, the Acre territory, was ceded to Brazil by treaty; Argentina and Peru both got their share of the frontier territories; today Bolivia is in dispute with Paraguay over parts of the Gran Chaco both have claimed since independence, from Peru and Chile, Bolivia is asking cession of Tacna and Arica, so that it again may have an outlet to the sea.

Bolivia's Growth Slow.
The development of Bolivia has been slower than that of any other South American country, some observers, indeed, who have lived long on the Alto Plana, that inhospitable plateau 13,000 feet above the sea, are prone to remark that its future is all behind. Once the chief source of wealth for the Conquistadores, Bolivia has suffered the fate of every nation which depends almost entirely on mineral wealth to the neglect of other development. Potosi, once a city of 100,000, is reduced to less than 40,000. Oruro, which in colonial days had more than 100,000, now counts 15,000. The same goes for other mining centers of the great table land.

How much this has been due to difficulties of transport and how much to the nature of the population the casual observer is not equipped to judge. Of the 2,500,000 inhabitants about a quarter are pure Indian, and something less than a fifth white. The rest is the cholo, or mixed white and Indian. The Indian and mixed population are sturdy, but unimaginative and backward.

Needs Indian Workmen.
But without the Indian workmen Bolivia would not have advanced as far as it has; no other labor can replace the native in the mines of the high plateau. Born to its altitude, he can perform a fair day's labor where the lowlander finds the burden of breathing and existence a sufficient chore.

From the lowlands, where European immigrants could work and develop the wilderness, others of population are so difficult to reach and transport so costly that there has been little or no influx of new peoples. Bolivia, until 1900, had no railways. Today only La Paz and the principal mining centers are served by rail transportation. The rich agricultural lands, which will produce any crop planted,

GIRL COMPLAINANT IN GLASER ATTACK CASE DISAPPEARS

Dolores Wheeler, 14 year old complaining witness against Joseph Glaser, alias Glaser, owner of the notorious black and tan Sunset cafe, has disappeared or is being hidden by a defense agent, according to a charge made yesterday by Assistant State's Attorney Charles Dougherty.

John Wheeler, stepfather of the girl, took her from the House of Good Shepherd on Saturday morning and in the afternoon moved from his quarters at 4311 Ellis avenue, detectives who have been searching throughout the city told the prosecutor yesterday. Attorneys for the defense denied knowing anything of the whereabouts of the girl, who for more than a year remained steadfast in her story that Glaser attacked her. The defense now has affidavits in which she denies her story, which resulted in a 10 year penalty for the cafe owner.

are as far from markets and civilization as ever.

These lands one day must be Bolivia's chief source of wealth. The farming and grazing lands are among the richest in the world. The forests are filled with valuable timber. But so costly to haulage that even railways for the building of mountain railways were imported from distant Australia and North America when the timber exists in vast quantities at distances of less than 300 miles.

To Open New Railway.
Public men are alive to the necessities of rail transportation. About 1,000 miles of narrow gauge railways exist today. Within the next few months the Potosi-Sucre railway will be opened.

Foreign money is pouring into this inland country, and apparently it will not be long until Bolivia begins to make use of its heritage of forests and fields. Most of this new money comes from the United States, whose investments have increased 50 per cent in the last two years. Today 60 per cent of all foreign investments in Bolivia are North American.

Political conditions are unsettled and they are hampering the full development of the nation, but despite this the work is going forward. New railways are being constructed and money is being poured for the survey and building of further lines into the interior. The Cochabamba-Santa Cruz railway has been partly provided for, but it is being held up by the insecure political situation.

ESTRANGED WIFE TAKES STAND FOR DR. M'MILLAN

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 21.—(AP)—His wife, from whom he has been separated for seven years, today came to the defense of Dr. Charles M. McMillan, physician, on trial for the murder of Mrs. Amelia Appleby, his wealthy employer.

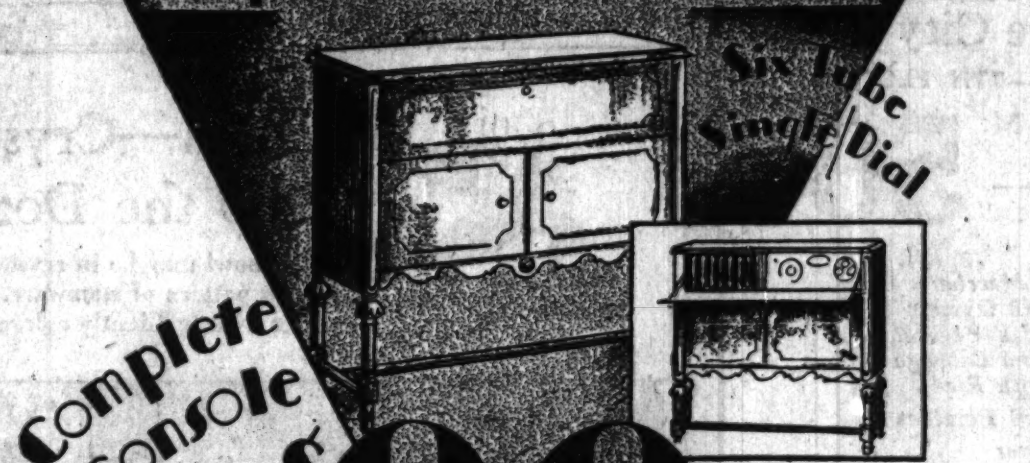

Mrs. Katharine McMillan took the witness stand just after the defense had launched an avowed attack upon the reputation of Mrs. Appleby, for whom the doctor had acted as business manager.

The witness supported the physician's explanation that a stain on his coat resulted from a nose bleed. The coat was introduced in evidence by the state yesterday in its attempt to convict Dr. McMillan of the slaying of the woman, whose body was found trussed up in canvas the day after Christmas.

When the state closed its case and before defense witnesses were called to the stand the defense attacked the admission of testimony during the trial concerning the "million dollar" property that Mrs. Appleby was said to have received from her former husband, a Chicago inventor.

ROB 40 MEN AND WOMEN IN REAR OF SMOKE SHOP

Forty men and women in the rear of a smoke shop at 1455 East 87th street were held up yesterday afternoon by five men armed with sawed off shot guns, who entered shortly after five o'clock. They seized the money on the tables and made a hasty search of patrons of the place. Estimates of their gains ranged from $400 to $1,000, according to stories of victims. No report of the robbery was made to the police.

During the 40 days of Lent too

Lent—always the problem of what to eat. What to cook and what to serve? How to interest the family appetites in Lenten dishes? This is the time for A. I. Sauce. Dish after dish—day after day—this season brings success to everything you serve. Its chef-like flavor makes all taste better.

For example, fish—of any kind—cooked almost any way—just needs this sauce. With it every bite becomes doubly tasty. In cheese dishes, it adds the flavor of luxurious hotel cookery. And soups—how they respond to a few drops of this A. I. seasoning. Sauces and vegetables, too. And with baked beans, of course.

This sauce will work wonders in your cooking. You just must use it to know its goodness—to learn how easily and deliciously it brings foods up to taste.

GAS RATES SAVING TO PUT AT 2 M

The People's Gas Co. yesterday announced a reduction of 10 cents per 100 cubic feet in its rates effective April 1. The reduction is estimated by the company to save the average household $1.50 a year, or a reduction of 10 per cent in the cost of gas.

The beneficiaries of the reduction are about 750,000 customers in Chicago. It was the first reduction in rates since 1923, when rates were raised 10 cents per 100 cubic feet.

The company last year reported a net income of $1,000,000. Its assets were $10,000,000. Its liabilities were $8,000,000. Its equity was $2,000,000.

The company's earnings per share for 1927 were $1.50. Its dividends for 1927 were $1.00. Its total assets for 1927 were $10,000,000. Its total liabilities for 1927 were $8,000,000. Its total equity for 1927 was $2,000,000.

GAS RATES CUT; SAVING TO USERS OUT AT 2 MILLION

The People's Gas Light and Coke Company announced a reduction in gas rates Monday from a basic price of 10 cents per 1,000 cubic feet, to 8 cents per 1,000 cubic feet, effective April 1. The saving to consumers is estimated by the company at $2,000,000, or a reduction of about 8.3 per cent in the corporation's annual revenue.

The beneficiaries of the reduction will number about 780,000, or approximately 83.3 per cent of all gas users in Chicago, it was said. Only the "commercial" customers, who require large quantities of gas for industrial and all provisions for full service, will not see no gas, or so little (400 cubic feet or less per month) that their bills will be above the minimum charge of 60 cents, will not receive a reduction in price. It is estimated by the company that $2,000,000 of the reduction will go directly to the pockets of the big users who will get a saving of $135,000.

The company last year had one of its most prosperous periods in its history. It sold more than 38 billion cubic feet of gas. Its operating revenue was $29,648,863 and its net income was $5,678,282. This profit was equivalent to $11.94 a share on the average capital stock of $47,886,378 outstanding during the year. The company paid dividends of $3 a share and then added $1,873,553 to its surplus, which now is $23,326,378.

The success of the company has been remarkable in the last few years. Eight years ago it was almost bankrupt. It lost heavily in 1917 and 1918 and in 1919 and 1920 earned only 17 and 29 cents respectively on its stock. No dividends were paid from 1918 to 1921. But under the management of Samuel Insull earnings increased and dividends were resumed at $5 a year in 1922 and were increased by $1 a year in 1923, 1924, and 1925. The market price of the stock was around $20

(Chicago Tribune News Service)

New York, Feb. 21.—(Special).—Stocks rallied smartly on the exchange today. The entire list exhibited sustained strength practically all of the session, and there was a long list of net gains of from 2 to 14 points. There was distinctly a better feeling in Wall street and it was the contention in speculative circles that the recovery was the logical result of the readjustment of the technical position of the main body of stocks.

The market was an unusual one in more than one way. Without any outside encouragement that could be identified it advanced briskly but unemotionally. The only development of consequence was the reduction of the call money rate from 4 1/2 to 4 per cent.

Montana Power Is Leader. Montana Power developed into the outstanding feature of the session. It had a sensational advance on reports that Electric Bond and Share company was to offer two shares for one of Montana Power. The stock ran up from 150 to 165, with particularly violent gains in the last few minutes of trading.

There was every indication that the bears stepped into a trap in a number of other highly advertised and well played speculative issues. Any number of bears were caught when the pools sensed the change in the market started bidding their stock up violently. Greene Cananea gained 8 points net and Gold Dust added 5 1/2 to its speculative. Barry gains in City Stores B, Johns Manville, Radio Corporation, Reynolds Tobacco B, and Tinsken Roller Bearing were to a large extent reflections of the rather frantic efforts of the shorts to buy back their outstanding lines.

Rail Shares Gain. A long list of net gains in the railroad group, ranging from a fraction to 4 points, emphasized the recovery which these shares experienced, although buying was still limited. Dividend paying rails were under the leadership of Union Pacific, Reading, New York Central, and Chesapeake and Ohio. Gains ranged from two to three points. Canadian Pacific crossed the 200 point mark on comparatively small turnover and Southern Railway was in good demand.

U. S. Steel and General Motors both registered substantial gains, the former climbing to 149 1/2, a net gain of 1 1/2 points, and the latter to 124 1/2, up 1 1/2 points. All of the independent motor shares moved ahead. The best advances were those of Chrysler and Nash, the latter more than two points, but Hudson, Hupp, Packard, and Studebaker also were well bought.

There was little change in the oil. Houston Oil was the exception, moving ahead in good fashion and closing the day with a net gain of 3 1/2 points.

Other gains were: National Standard, 1 1/2; Montgomery Ward, 1 1/2; Galenburgh-Coulter Disc, 1 1/2; Auburn Automobile and Club Aluminum, a point each. National Electric Power A, Swift International, and Marvel Cartridge were up fractionally. On small sales, Great Lakes Dredge eased 2 points, while Pitts-Simons & Connell Dredge sold up 7 points. The latter company, it was rumored, will share in the contracts for the river straightening.

Recoveries of the day included Midland Steel, 4 points; Koppers Steel, 3 points; Evans A, 3 points; Evans B, 1 1/2; Campbell, Wyant & Cannon Foundry, 1 1/2; Beare Roebuck, 1 1/2, and Swift, 1 1/2. Reading lost 1 1/2, and losses of a point each were registered by Kraft, Monmouth, Wrigley, Colman, and Great Iron. The Eddy Paper company reported net profits of $417,748 for 1927, equal to $2.54 a share on 125,000 shares of capital stock outstanding, compared with $21.84, or 73 cents a share in 1926. Stockholders of the Chicago Fuse Manufacturing company ratified the proposal to consolidate with the Jefferson Electric Manufacturing company. The corporation will be known as the Chicago-Jefferson Fuse and Electric company.

TOPICS OF FINANCE, TRADE AND INDUSTRY

The Gill Manufacturing company of Chicago, according to an announcement by George G. Southon of the Diamond Motor Parts company, St. Cloud, Minn., is a member of a triple merger engineered by the former organization. The third company involved in the Schlader Manufacturing company of Detroit. E. J. Smith, former president of the Gill company, becomes vice president in charge of sales of the Diamond Motor Parts company. A direct factory branch will be continued in Chicago, but the manufacturing and equipment machinery here has been moved to St. Cloud.

Certo corporation declared the usual extra of 25 cents and the regular quarterly of 75 cents. The usual extra dividend of 25 cents a share has been declared by directors on the stock of the American Safety Razor company in addition to the regular quarterly of $1 a share.

The Missouri, Kansas and Texas handled 10,644 freight cars in the week ended Feb. 18, against 10,705 in the same week a year ago. The Missouri Pacific handled 10,411 against 10,604 a year ago.

All plants of Underwood Elliott Fisher company are operating at capacity. The Underwood typewriter plant is running overtime, a typewriter, heated, ready for shipment, being produced every 45 seconds during a nine hour working day, the company states.

The outlook for American Steel Foundries for 1928 is encouraging, George E. Scott, first vice president, said on his departure for Europe. "Business is good, and we are not at all skeptical of the future," he added.

Frank W. Trubold, president of Trans-Union & Williams, at the annual meeting stated the company has orders booked for more than the total business done in 1927 and prospects for the current year are excellent. H. O. Barker and C. C. Gibson were elected to the board of directors.

Shaw-Wheatfield company reports that current shipments of pig iron at Birmingham are ahead of production and that many encouraging reports are being received concerning business improvement. January deliveries ran quite in excess of December.

Demand for machinery was fairly active the last week, taking the country as a whole, with sales well distributed over a wide area. American Machinist reports. New England reported increased activity in aircraft engine operations. Buying of tools by the railroads has improved.

National Power and Light stockholders approved the increase in authorized capital stock to 7,500,000 common shares from 5,000,000 shares and 500,000 shares of $4 preferred from 100,000 shares.

The Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific has distributed orders for 50,000 tons of steel rails, 42,500 tons going to Illinois Steel and the rest to Inland Steel.

William S. Dodd was elected a director of the Laclede Light company to succeed H. L. Fogg and F. R. Moulton replaced W. C. Van Allen.

WAVE OF BUYING ON CURB SWINGS STOCKS UP AGAIN

New York, Feb. 21.—(AP)—The buying wave that swept the curb market in the final hour yesterday gained force today and a long list of issues moved up, some 5 to 8 points.

Gains were large and losses generally small among the industrials. A. J. Spaulding soared 9 points to a new high at 155 and Sparks Withington made its almost daily new high by advancing one point to 62. Speculative buying also caused a rise of 5 points in Deere & Co., 4 points in Bancroft, and 3 points in Royal Baking Powder. Stocks of weaving firms handling artificial fabrics, like Calaness, Tubine Art Silk and Courtlidge advanced. Pittsburgh Plate Glass dropped 3 points and Firestone Tire lost nearly 4.

American Gas and Electric and Electric Bond and Share moved up about 3 points each. American Light and Traction gained 1 1/2 points, but other gains were fractional.

Vacuum Oil, with a gain of 8 points, and Prairie Pipe Line, up 4 1/2 to a new high at 31 1/2, led the oil and pipe lines upward.

Thomas E. Wilson Sees Favorable Trade Ahead. An optimistic outlook for the next year was expressed by Thomas E. Wilson, president of Wilson & Co., packers, at the annual meeting of stockholders held yesterday. He refused to talk of the prospects for resuming dividends on the preferred stock. The directors declared one dividend on the preferred following the reorganization and since then it has been omitted. Robert F. Carr was elected a director.

RENEWAL NOTICE

TRIBUNE Insurance

Your TRIBUNE Insurance expires soon!
Don't lose this valuable protection....
RENEW for another year for only $1.00
with Coupon on page 3

Do not neglect renewing your Tribune policy for another year. The fact that payments for accidents covered by Tribune Insurance Policies have reached the huge sum of more than $850,000.00 proves not only that Tribune Insurance is the broadest protection of its kind ever offered, but that no person can afford to remain unprotected.

The cost of Tribune Insurance is insignificant—the value tremendous. It is a real public service. In many instances it has paid large sums of money for accidents not covered at all by the provisions of policies issued through other newspapers.

Don't let your policy lapse! It is more valuable now than ever. Specific indemnities increase 10% on renewal, which means that the high value of your policy increases each year you renew—the first year to $8,250.00, the second year to $9,000.00, the third year to $9,750.00—10% each year until it reaches $11,250.00. This is a growing value too great to lose. Don't delay. Renew at once! If you do not remember the exact expiration date send your renewal now and be sure. You will receive full credit for a year's renewal from the exact date of expiration as shown on our records.

More Than $850,000.00 in real money has been paid to Tribune Policyholders and beneficiaries

An amazing record! This is more money BY FAR than has been paid on insurance issued through any other newspaper. Real insurance! Great protection! These few cases of large sums paid indicate the broad coverage of Tribune Insurance.

SAMUEL E. HARRISON, Hurdville, Ill. Took out policy, W. G. N. 28874 on March 11, 1925. Renewed policy twice, each time increasing in face value 10%. On November 14th, 1927, he was killed in a taxicab accident crossing the Bell Line Railroad at La Grange. His mother, age 70, whose sole support he was, received the face amount of his policy plus the 10% renewal increase. She was paid $9,000.

WILLIAM E. COWER, Aurora, Ill. Took out policy, W. G. N. 34880, on December 22nd, 1925. Killed March 20th, 1926, while on duty, carrying two passengers, was struck by train. On April 26th, 1926, his widow, Annie M. Cower, was paid $7,500.

HARRY WICKLANDER, Hurdville, Ill. Took out policy, W. G. N. 34880, on December 22nd, 1925. Killed November 26th, 1927, in an accident on the C. & N. W. & M. Railway at Hurdville. On January 14th, 1928, his wife, Eva Grace Wicklander, received the face amount of his policy plus the 10% renewal increase. She was paid $9,000.

ALBERT J. HOGAN, Chicago, Ill. Machine helper. Took out policy, W. G. N. 34880, on December 22nd, 1925. Died from injury received September 22nd, 1927. His widow, Mrs. Lillian Hogan, was paid $3,750.

FINDS NUMBER OF WORKERS DROPS WITH PROSPERITY

BY HARPER LERCH.

The rising curve of production and wage levels from 1923 to 1927, with its slight dip in 1924, and the resumption of progress now in evidence, have undoubtedly been accompanied by a decreasing proportion of the American people being engaged in gainful labor—and that entirely independent of involuntary displacement, shifting and unemployment. The kind of prosperity we evolved in the post-war period not only increased the output of mines, mills, railroads, and farms for export, giving us less men so employed and more goods, with a shift of millions to new industries, trades, and services, but it is very evident that a part of this gain in output was realized in the form of leisure. Studies of the manufacturing trades in which women have been employed for decades reveals a relative decrease of women in many such lines. The proportion of all females over 16 at work outside the home has been declining ever since 1919.

People find this hard to believe. People who write are mostly of the middle classes. They live in the suburbs and work in the office districts. They see the bodies of girl office workers coming out of the new skyscrapers. They hear the prattle of feminists and flappers about career and the economic independence of women. They do not see the factories; they do not see the decreasing proportion of women in drudge trades. The fact that the proportion of white native born women of native parentage engaged in gainful occupations has increased slightly while the proportion of foreign born women, women of foreign parentage, and Negro women in work outside the home has decreased, is not realized by the world which is obsessed with the clatter about female emancipation.

American prosperity has coincided with a period in Europe largely marked by depression. There has been much ill-considered talk about European idleness, but the facts are that a greater proportion of European people are at work and have been at work most of the time, than there have been of the American population.

This fact is a curious commentary on the old formula that the road to national wealth is to work and save. Europeans are working harder and relatively more Europeans are working than Americans. The statistics on savings in Britain certainly indicate that the British masses have been saving in proportion to their opportunities at a rate not at all discreditable when contrasted to the savings achievements of the American masses.

The rule makes some modification. National wealth and prosperity not only

Continental Motors.

A. H. Clinton, Wis.—Continental Motors corporation reported net income of $1,548,535 for the fiscal year ended Oct. 31, 1932, as compared with $1,528,337 for the preceding fiscal year.

This was equal to 70 cents a share earned on the 30 per cent capital stock in the 1932 fiscal year, against $1.15 a share earned in the preceding period.

After payment of dividends there was a deficit of $187,756 for the latest fiscal year, compared with a surplus of $617,551 in the preceding fiscal year.

Total surplus stood at $1,948,648 on Oct. 31, 1932, against $1,068,414 on Oct. 31, 1931.

Current assets were $1,494,379 and liabilities $1,971,137 as of Oct. 31, 1932.

This left net working capital of $11,241,712, which compares with $11,154,337 as of Oct. 31, 1931.

Earnings in the last half of the 1932 fiscal year showed improvement over the first half, as 62 cents a share was earned in the first half, against 6 cents a share in the second half.

Dividends at the annual rate of 80 cents a share are being paid.

The stock is of medium grade and speculative at present.

COTTON UNSETTLED

Cotton markets were decidedly unsettled yesterday, although trade was only fair and there was considerable buying for the holiday. Liverpool and Alexandria markets came better than had been expected, but there was considerable buying in American markets early which caused a fair advance. Spot houses brought March and there was also buying of March and selling of the deferred deliveries. Freight is first notice day on March contracts at New York, and only moderate tenders are expected. Private reports told of rain in western Texas, and the market reacted from best prices, with the close about the bottom. Not much new business was done in New York closed 10 points lower, at 15.50. Prices follow:

NEW SECURITIES TO BE OFFERED BY U. S. TREASURY

The Chicago and New York stock exchanges, the Chicago Board of Trade and the principal commodity markets of the country as well as the banks will be closed today—Washington's birthday.

By O. A. MATHER.

Another big refunding operation in the United States war loans is expected next month. All the federal reserve banks yesterday sent out notices to the member banks that the treasury expects to offer new securities on March 15.

Financial experts expect Secretary Mellon to announce plans for refunding the Third Liberty 4 1/2 per cent bonds, which mature next September. The original issue was $4,175,000,000, but retirement operations by the treasury have reduced the amount to less than $1,500,000,000. Refunding of this issue will leave only two of the original war issues outstanding, the First Liberty 4 1/2 per cent bonds, which mature in 1942, and the Fourth Liberty 4 1/2 per cent bonds, which mature in 1945.

Improvement in Steel Trade. Evidence of the improved situation in the steel industry came from several directions yesterday. Two subsidiaries of the United States Steel Corporation, the Carnegie Steel and Illinois Steel companies, made price advances of $1 a ton on bars, shapes, and plates. A similar advance was made on Jan. 19.

"Steel production is holding its recent gains and is perhaps a shade higher than a week ago," the Iron Age says. "At Chicago there is not only a good volume of specifications against past obligations, but also considerable fresh buying, sales during the week having been exceeded only twice since Jan. 1. From Chicago also comes the first signs of interest in second quarter requirements."

Oil Prices Revised. Prices of mid-continental crude oil were revised yesterday by the principal oil companies. Prices of oil under 36 degrees gravity were reduced from one to five cents a barrel but prices of lighter grades were raised from one to 15 cents.

Prices for Panhandle crude oil were advanced slightly. Petroleum production increased modestly last week. The daily average gross crude oil output was 1,400,000 barrels, an increase of 4,800 barrels a day over the previous week, according to the American Petroleum Institute. Stable increases occurred in the West Texas and California fields, which more than offset declines in Oklahoma, Panhandle, Texas, and coastal Texas.

Railroad Reports Disappointing. Preliminary annual reports from the railroads continue disappointing. Net income of the Atchafalaya, Topeka and Santa Fe last year was $14,784,137, equivalent after preferred dividends to $13.75 a share on the common stock. Net income for 1933 was $40,611,495, or $23.41 a share.

Net income of the Great Northern was $22,983,923, equivalent to $23.25 a share, compared with $25,433,333, or $10.45 a share, in 1933. Net income of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy was $11,403,133, or $11.45 a share, compared with $12,387,583, or $11.04 a share, in 1933. The Chicago and Alton had a deficit of $1,585,280 last year, compared with a deficit of $498,754 in 1933.

Stock Over-subscribed by Pullman Employees. Employees of Pullman, Inc., over-subscribed the 15,000 shares offering of common stock made to them by the directors at 75 a share, the company announced yesterday. The market price at the close was 80 1/2. This is the third offering of stock to employees. Two years ago 10,000 shares of old Pullman company stock was sold to employees at $140 a share and a year ago a like amount of stock was sold at $160 a share.

Approximately 74,000 subscriptions were received from employees under the three plans, it was stated. The present offering was on monthly payments extending over a period of thirty-three months, with all dividends credited to employees and a 4 per cent interest charged on unpaid balances. The net outlay for each share of stock assuming the continuance of the present dividend rate, will be $47.50 a share.

CORN LEADS GAIN
IN GRAIN MARKET
ON LATE BUYING

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Grain markets showed a firm undertone from the start, and with an enlargement in buying prices started upward toward the last and the finish was about the top with corn in the lead. Lately gained 14¢ to 20¢, with near futures in new ground on the present movement and July at new high on the crop. March closed at 96¢; May, 99¢@99 1/2¢, and July, 1.01¢@1.01 1/2¢. Wheat was 1/2¢ higher with March, 1.13¢@1.13 1/2¢; May, 1.14¢@1.14 1/2¢, and July, 1.15¢@1.15 1/2¢. Oats were up 1/2¢ to 3/4¢. An outstanding feature in both wheat and corn was the lack of pressure, and it took but relatively little buying to start the markets upward. Trade in corn broadened materially after being dull early, and individual operations counted for little, with heavy general buying making its appearance after May around 96¢, and above that figure sellers of offers were forced to protect themselves, while leading local bulls were free buyers.

Corn Sold for Export.

Despite the higher basis for cash grain and the return in futures export sales of 100,000 bu were reported via the Atlantic and Gulf ports, and attracted some attention, but the main influence was the continued strength in the cash position, and the decreasing receipts. At no time did the wheat market show an easy undertone, and there was fair commission house buying which absorbed the surplus in the pit, and a sharp uptick came toward the close with the July showing the most strength on further claims of damage in the central west due to freezing and thawing. The July finished at 96¢ under the May compared with 1¢ under recently.

Futurists After Wheat.

Futurists were after wheat in fair volume, but a majority of the bids were below the market, and sales of only 300,000 bu were reported in all positions. Oats were dull early, but became more active toward the last in sympathy with other grains. Houses with eastern and northwestern connections were fair sellers early, offerings were readily absorbed by locals and other commission houses.

All deliveries of rye sold at a new high on the crop, with an excellent demand for cash grain reported.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was unchanged today, with Porto Rican prompt shipment at 4.10¢. Raw futures opened unchanged at 1.10¢, with the close 1 point lower to 1.09¢. Higher prices were unchanged at 1.09¢. Prime follow:

CASH GRAIN
NEWS

Report sales of 300,000 bu wheat and 100,000 bu corn were reported in all positions at the board. There was a good demand for wheat, mostly below a workable basis. Foreigners were after rye for nearby and summer shipment, and it was estimated that exporters had bought 500,000 to 600,000 bu in all positions in the last two days.

Society Misses Begin to Plan Their Stunt for Army-Navy Ball

BY THALIA

Now the Army and Navy ball is in the offing. The annual affair given by the Army and Navy club is scheduled for Saturday evening, March 24, and will be held, as always, in the gold ballroom of the Congress. The group of young women who are to appear in the program, the feature event of the evening, met yesterday afternoon under the chairmanship of Miss Eileen McArthur at the Ambassador hotel to discuss plans. They didn't decide definitely what they'll offer in the way of entertainment, but it's sure to include some dancing and pretty costumes.

Miss McArthur's performers will include Miss Jessie Homer, Miss Dorothy Vitek, Miss Roberta Harvey, and Miss Mary Barnes of the year's quota of entertainers; Miss Pauline Wolf, Miss Lorna, Miss Georgianna White, Miss Dorothy Parsons, Miss Margaret, Miss Joan Richey, Miss Mildred Clisbe, Miss Gertrude, Miss Mary Gardner, Miss Jean, Miss Emily, and Miss Marion.

The Illinois Society of Colonial Dames of America has issued invitations to view the poster designs submitted to the national patriotic service committee of the organization from 8 to 10 o'clock Monday afternoon at the Chicago Historical society. The object of the recent competition for posters was to obtain suitable designs for the government of the interior of the government, which would be widely distributed in the effort to reduce illiteracy.

Miss William A. Yager, Mrs. E. R. Chandler, Mrs. William E. Clarke, and Mrs. Edward A. Leigh are to present a benefit of the Shakespeare foundation in the Marshall Field & Co. book store tomorrow afternoon. Joseph Bailey and Raymond Hitchcock are to appear.

Mr. Joseph T. Ryerson of 1406 North Street departed on Monday for two weeks in Georgia.

Miss William James of Cambridge, Mass., departed recently after a short visit with her father, John Sumner Sumner, at his residence at 1525 North State Parkway.

Miss William H. Hubbard of 1210 North Street is stopping at the Ambassador hotel and plans on leaving Chicago about March 3 for a trip to Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Weger of 456 North Street departed last Saturday for a fortnight in Cuba.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph S. Longstaff of 101 Forest are in New York for a brief sojourn. They are expected back tomorrow.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Adams of 1414 Walton place, and their daughter, Miss Jean Adams, are in Illinois and will not return before March 5. They departed two weeks ago after changing their plans to the Mediterranean cruise, on which they had expected to embark.

Miss Louise Brewer is in Palm Beach, Fla., where she will be the guest of her uncle and aunt, the Wileys. She will be there for three weeks at the winter place, Casa Manana.

Mr. and Mrs. David Butler of Brookline, Mass., announce the birth of a son, David Francis Butler, on Monday, Feb. 19, at 10 o'clock.

Miss Teter has departed for a brief vacation at Southern Pines, N.C. After attending the trust conference and banquet, he is to join Mrs. Teter in New York City for a short trip to Europe. They will return in early April.

If You Want Your Child to Be Liked Teach Him Courtesy

By Gladys Huntington

There is an old nursery rhyme that begins:

Speak when you're spoken to—
Come when the door is open—
And the rest I don't remember.

The second and third lines may be matters of convenience for parents—because it is nice for you to have the children come when you call and to shut the doors after themselves! But the one that it seems to me is almost a necessity is: "Speak when you're spoken to." It's not nearly as "trifling a command as it might seem to be.

The more I see of little children, the more I realize what a really important thing it is for a child to answer when he's spoken to. O, I don't mean by his family or intimates, but by people he doesn't know well—the outside world, we'll call it.

Suppose you meet an acquaintance on the street or go to call on a friend whose children come into the room, and you ask them a question. What happens in the majority of cases? Either they look at you blankly, or in what is obviously a dumb agony of embarrassment, or else they hang their heads or bury their faces against their mothers' skirts.

This is not so good. Children should not be disturbed to such an extent by the simple necessity of looking a person in the face and replying. Their mothers explain it by saying they are shy or bashful—and may even say it before them. Sometimes it isn't this, but a kind of contrariness that develops into stubbornness. Whatever the reason, it is not good for either the child's present or his future.

Meeting people unconsciously, thinking of what they are saying instead of thinking of one's self; finding communication with people easy instead of feeling that it is like jumping over a hurdle; answering a simple question in a direct manner, are all things which make human intercourse free and natural. To obtain these ways for your child, begin as soon as he can talk and train him to meet people easily and to look at them when he speaks to them. It is a great asset for him.

And incidentally, for after all we do like to have our offspring appear well—it will spare you many awkward moments socially.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Crumpets.

A correspondent has recently written to me to the effect that he was brought up in England and liked the crumpets, the pikelets, the muffins that he had there, but which he can find no one hereabouts to make. These three griddle baked breads are essentially the same thing, or the English muffins are a little more nearly so; the pikelets are perhaps more like a thin American pancake; the crumpets are more like a ring muffin, that is, thicker than the pikelets. The muffins are the thickest of all, or thick enough to be molded into a ball or cake and be baked without a ring. All of these are of a more elegant type of bread than only sour milk and soda or sweet milk and baking powder pancakes.

Here is a recipe for what can be used as a crumpet: One cup of milk scalded and cooled to tepid; add a fourth of a yeast cake, one tablespoon of sugar, and one cup of flour. This will rise no as to be "good and light" in about an hour. If one is not then nearly ready to finish it, it can be stirred down and allowed to rise again. About two hours before it is to be used add one-fourth cup of flour, three tablespoons of melted butter, one-fourth teaspoon of salt, or a little more, beat well and bake in rings on the griddle, or without the rings. We think they are more attractive with rings than without, and in this case they may be treated like English muffins at once, that is, split and toasted.

Elmer Is Kept Busy Hearing Good Programs

Music of All Varieties
Comes Over Air.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.
Now's the way things broke in crossing on the air last evening.
First, the regular Tuesday, New York 7 to 9:30 program by a group of male singers with a Valencia opening, through W-G-N—a model of an advertising program. The 7:30 to 8 hour from W-G-N's studio, with harp solo, and Walter Pontius, tenor, who for romanticism in his singing often out-trobbled the regulation trou-badours.

A Bach lecture-recital from WLS,
7:15 to 8, with glorious Flora Waalkas, soprano, in unfamiliar selections keeping this program from being too lec-turey.

The regular Tuesday 8 to 9 feature program from New York through W-G-N was classical this time. The orchestra opened with Smetana's whirlwind overture to "The Bartered Bride," later playing an immensely interesting novelty, an old German air with variations in the manner of Haydn, Johann Strauss, Verdi, and Wagner, respectively.

The Hamilton club male chorus, Harry E. Walsh directing, at the Hamilton club auditorium, WLS, 8:15 to 9:30; soloists, R. Fred Wise, tenor;
Earl Alexander, tenor, and Charles Cooley, bass—this latter being tremendously effective over the air. A very choice program of choral selections, many of them unfamiliar, all of them sung with spirit and precision and with admirable attention to shade-ing and phrasing.

KTW, 8 to 9, I don't when, a New York broadcast of the American Mining and Metallurgical engineers with banquet speeches, in which Herbert Hoover was honored with a medal and who in turn honored them and us with another of his addresses. Other speakers also.

WJJD, 9 to 9:30, Jimmy [Welsh] club banquet addresses, Palmer house, with Secretary of Labor James J. Davis as principal speaker, and Blahney Richard H. Hughes as director of chair and microphone.

Finally, Loyola University Glee club,
WLS, 10:15; soulful, semi-serious program, as usually usual with glee clubs.

And thus the day is ended.

RAINBOW VETERANS RECALL WAR DAYS AT REUNION DINNER

Ten years ago last night the Rainbow division swung into action for the first time in the Lunsford sector in France. Last night 160 members of the Illinois chapter of this division celebrated the anniversary of a battle fought in the German club, Clark street and Germania place.

Maj. Laurence Robbins, vice president of the Northern Trust company, who recently returned from Europe,
told the diners of his visit to the old front lines.

"Do you remember position A157?"
he asked. "Yes," the veterans answered, and they shuddered, for the position was often the target for German guns. "I found it when I visited the old front lately; it's leveled off and grass is growing over it," Maj. Robbins told them.

Barre Blumenthal, national president of the division, announced that 800 Chicagoans would attend its convention in Columbus, O., on July 15, 14 and 15.

COURT LIFTS BAR SINISTER FROM BARONET'S HEIRS

LONDON, Feb. 21.—An ancient society scandal was revived today by the application under the new legitimacy act of four children of the late Gen.
Sir Henry Percival de Batha, who were born before their parents married, for declaration that they were legitimate.

The applicants were Lady Olive Burham, wife of Lord Burham, until recently the proprietor of the Daily Telegraph; Mrs. Macdonald, the famous society hostess; Maximilian de Batha, and Lady Phyllis Somerset-Leyton.

It was said Sir Henry and Lady de Batha, who later became his wife, lived together for thirteen years before their marriage. This was due to the opposition to the marriage of Sir Henry's father.

The marriage took place in 1875 and two sons were born afterward, one of whom, Sir Hugo de Batha, married Mrs. Lillie Langtry, the actress famed as "the Jersey Lily." The court issued the decree of legitimacy.

MANAGER DENIES IRVING BERLIN'S WIFE IS AILING

New York, Feb. 21.—(Special.)—A report current among friends of Irving Berlin and his wife, the former Miss Mackay, that Mrs. Berlin has contracted a serious ailment, making it necessary for the Berlins to take up residence in Arizona, was denied by the composer's business representatives here today.

Max Winslow, member of the firm of Irving Berlin, Inc., said Berlin, who is in California, said there was
"not a bit of truth in the report."

Mrs. Berlin was in perfect health, her husband told him, Winslow said.
Brooklyn heard that Berlin himself was ill when the family started for the coast some weeks ago, and has been surprised to learn that it was not the song writer but his wife who has been stricken.

10 WOMEN NOW RUN FOR OFFICE IN PRIMARY RACE

(Picture on back page.)

Each succeeding election campaign finds the roster of woman candidates just a bit longer than the preceding one, and the present race is no exception. Unusual activity among woman voters is indicated by the announcements to date of ten feminine candidates to the state legislature.

Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, the senior, is running for congresswoman at large from Illinois.
Mrs. Harold I. Lokes of Winnetka, for years a leader in club circles of Chicago, is the latest to join the ranks of the candidates. Announcement was made yesterday that she had filed for the Republican nomination as state representative from the Seventh district to succeed Howard P. Castie, who is not a candidate for reelection.

Leader in Women's Clubs

Mrs. Lokes is a former president of the Chicago Woman's club, and is a member of the Woman's City, the Fortnightly, and the Winnetka Woman's club. She is a trustee of the state university and a director of the Chicago Regional Planning association.

In the Republican ranks Mrs. Emily
R. Potter and Mrs. Flora B. Cheney are opposing each other for state representative from the fifth or Woodlawn district.

Mrs. Lettie Holmes O'Neill of Down-ers Grove, state representative from the forty-first district, will again make the race for the Republican nomination, as will Mrs. Rena Elrod, from the twenty-fifth district. Mrs. Elrod is endorsed by the Thompson-Crowns forces.

Mrs. Bohrer Runs Again

State Senator Florence Pifer Bohrer of Bloomington, the twenty-sixth district, has again announced her candidacy on the Republican ticket.

Mrs. Sara Bond Hanley of the thirty-second district, a Democrat, is a candidate for state representative to succeed herself, as is Mrs. Mary C.
McAdams of Quincy, the thirty-sixth district, also a Democrat.

Miss Agnes Nestor, president of the Woman's Trade Union league of Chicago, has filed for the Democratic nomination in the Sixth district. She will be opposed by Charles H. Weber.

CAPITAL LOBBY USUALLY A FAKE, CARAWAY SAYS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 21.—(Special.)—Ninety per cent of the organizations with representatives at the national capital are fakes, according to assertions by Senator Caraway [Dem., Ark.], in a report submitted to the senate from the judiciary committee today in support of his bill requiring registration of lobbyists.

Senator Caraway said that not more than 10 per cent of the more than 400 associations listed in the local telephone directory are of a legitimate character. Most of the representatives of the alleged associations, Senator Caraway asserted, "prey upon the credulity of those who have an interest in what congress shall do."

"On the other hand, there is a large number of people who pretend to represent 'associations' who are lobbyists pure and simple and in the most offensive sense of that term. They prey upon the credulity of people who have an interest or fancy they have an interest in what congress shall do."

SEEK CAUSE OF EXPLOSION, FIRE THAT KILLED 1

(Picture on back page.)

Police and fire authorities of Maywood last night were investigating an early morning explosion and blaze which wrecked the home of Bernard Fous, 55 years old, and burned his wife, Dorothy, to death. Fous was severely injured. The two men were in the West Suburban hospital.
An explosion was heard at the Fous home, 1218 South 1st avenue, Maywood, about 6 o'clock yesterday morning. After the small frame building had been destroyed the body of Mrs.
Fous, who was 55 years old, was found near a small stove in what had been the living room. Near the body was found what was believed to be the bottom of a kerosene can. Chief John Kronenbitter of the Maywood fire department expressed the belief that Mrs. Fous attempted to use the oil to start a fire in the stove.
